document from the year 2017 in the subject english language and literature studies literature university of marburg language english abstract 9 11 novels post 9 11 novels and ground zero fiction which have a literary closeness of this day suddenly picked up the former colonial concepts of other and otherness or center and periphery and set them in a context of a shifting multicultural american population with the task to suddenly re imagine this other a task which has hardly been dealt with and if so only on the surface to do so is a difficult task since this has to be done from a western perspective and in the light that this other here is attached to islam or muslims the literary presentation of the other as a muslim remains a painful step since it also has to examine the ways in which knowledge is manipulated by dominant western and muslim discourses but it helps to bring in new energy into the postcolonial discourse being shaped by critics such as said spivak or foucault thus fiction related to 9 11 must not only stay on the level of shock or individual or collective trauma it can also be seen as a starting point for new cultural and critical debates how to deal and write about the terror attacks of that day and how to see the muslim as the other in a more objective light how this can be done will be one central part of this book which starts with a general remark of muslim writing before and after 9 11 and a short reflection of different types of novels dealing with it a next step lies in the task to critically reflect the presentation of muslims in 9 11 fiction in the usa and canada this will be followed by an analysis of parameters typical for muslim existence a closer analysis will then be followed by three novels dealing with matters of otherness the reluctant fundamentalist 2007 cockroach 2008 and atta 2011 the final step then will be to give an outlook of the matter discussed here the choice of the three novels analyzed here followed one basic principle namely that all selected authors are male and dispose of a different cultural and religious background with islam as the common glue the first was to create a theory to support the practice of divorce mediation this was born of my belief that the early proponents of divorce mediation had failed to sit down and ask the basic questions that the founders of any new field should pose the result was that they concluded that if the problem was that divorcing couples had turned to adversarial divorce proceedings the solution was to provide them with a nonadversarial one or at least a less adversarial one as a result though they considered divorce mediation to represent a repudiation of adversarial divorce proceedings they unwittingly accepted and incorporated into their thinking and therefore into their practices the answers given to those questions by our adversarial legal system and with it literally all the assumptions and all the values that informed and gave support to them worse they unwittingly adopted and were then held captive by the picture of the world of divorce subscribed to by our adversarial legal system
